

I am writing about the possiblility of lowering the standards of the law already in place for the No Call List. Leave it alone. It is working great. I am no longer being bothered by anyone at 9:30 on a weekend morning or on weekday nights. I don't need anyone calling me trying to sell me something, even if I am an "existing" customer. If i am an existing customer, I know how to contact them if I want to buy something else. I have never bought anything from a telemarketer and never plan too. They just interfere with my personal life. Please leave this law alone, it is working great. The only calls i get at home now are the ones I want. Thanks,
